Pontoon fears Aquacenter drifting away

By Sam Hananel

Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — Sensing that Collinsville is trying to steal their thunder, Village Board members attempted Tuesday night to boost their chances of keeping the Mid-America Aquacenter in Pontoon Beach.

At Tuesday's board meeting Mayor Glen Wilson announced that two owners of proposed sites for the Aquacenter in Pontoon Beach have increased their offer of free land for the structure. The announcement came on the heels of word last week that the Collinsville Convention Authority is seeking to replace Pontoon Beach as sponsor of the project.

The authority voted to apply for a $600,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Commerce for a comprehensive study of the Aquacenter.

In a letter dated Monday, Charles Luehmann, owner of property near the intersection of Interstate 255 and Illinois 162, told Wilson that he would grant the village a 99-year lease on 60 acres of land, up from his previous offer of 25 to 30 acres.

Wilson also said that Emert Wyss, an owner of property near the intersection of Interstate 270 and Illinois 111, would increase his previous offer to donate 25 to 35 acres of land for the project to 55 acres.

Countering the move from Collinsville, board member Linda Madison said Pontoon Beach will seek funding for the aquarium from the Madison County Metropolitan Exposition and Building Authority.

But Judy Chopping, general manager for the Collinsville Convention Authority, said the authority does not view the Aquacenter development as competition between Pontoon Beach and Collinsville.

"We are supportive of the Aquacenter as long as it is in Southern Illinois," Chopping said. She said the feasibility study would lend itself to the best location for the project.

Regarding the land donations in Pontoon Beach, she said, "Free is not always better," adding that Collinsville locations are closer to hotels and other attractions for visitors.

"I am sure local businesses would rather have it in Collinsville but we will support whatever location the feasibility study says is best," she said.

Gary Fears, a Collinsville developer, said locating the Aquacenter on either of the two free land plots in Pontoon Beach would make absolute sense because there are far from tourist thoroughfares and have no sewer, water or road structures around them.

Fears said the perfect site for the project is on land at State Aid 35 and Interstate 255, in an unincorporated area between Pontoon Beach and Collinsville.

Study planned on high school

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Plans for a new or renovated high school took a cautious first step Tuesday night.

The District 9 school board voted to hire an architectural firm to conduct a feasibility study to determine whether it would be more cost effective to renovate the existing high school or build a new one. The board, in a closed session, interviewed representatives from three architectural firms and expects to hire one of those firms next month.

The board has just begun and plans to proceed slowly, according to School Superintendent Gib Walmsley. He said hiring a firm to do a feasibility study is part of the overall process of collecting information before the board even begins the decision-making process.

Walmsley said premise for the study is a complete renovation, including the addition of a cafeteria and structural systems which, when completed, would give the renovated high school the same expected lifetime as a new building.

"Really, it would just look like the old building," Walmsley said.

Walmsley said the renovation study will not include the gym or cafeteria and, because those buildings are in relatively good shape, he would guess a new building would also be put on the same location.

"It's just basically a feeling, but I think whatever ends up being done will be done on the present site," Walmsley said.

Although the district said the former Granite City Normal School, a much newer facility, after its closing in 1983, Walmsley said its use would not have been a practical alternative.

I know some people believe we gotta have a high school," Walmsley said. "But it would have cost millions just to give it a varsity gym."

He said the school, now the Granite City Campus of the Bob Jones Christian College, was designed to handle an enrollment of about half the size of the current enrollment.

"It never would have housed our student body," Walmsley said. "It just never would have done the job."

The firms interviewed by the board were Thompson Design Group Inc. of Troy, Huff Architectural Group Inc. of Springfield, Ill., and SAG-Sarti Architectural Group Inc. of Springfield, Ill.

Granite City approves new hiring process

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — All new city employees, except those hired by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, will go through a screening process before being hired.

The City Council, by a 10-4 vote, approved an ordinance Tuesday creating a Personnel Commission composed of seven members appointed by the City Council.

The commission will review the qualifications of all applicants for an open position and then recommend the top three to the mayor. The mayor is expected to, but not bound to, hire from that list.

During the meeting, the qualification of applicants, the commission will give 40 percent weight to the results of written occupational examinations and 60 percent weight to written comments concerning the applicant made by the appropriate department head following a personal interview.

One member will be appointed from each ward based on the joint recommendation of the three aldermen of that ward. If a joint

Ordinance on examinations delayed

GRANITE CITY — An ordinance requiring a replacement physical exam for all employees hired by the newly-created Personnel Commission was deferred Tuesday in order to see if the requirement can be extended to police and fire fighters.

The aldermen instructed City Attorney Mark Goldenberg to research the legality of including new firefighters and police, hired by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners and exempt in the proposed ordinance, in a rewritten ordinance.

The proposed ordinance also includes the clerk, treasurer, superintendent of streets, aldermen and appointed officers from the requirement.

Neither Fire Chief Jerry Wallace nor Assistant Police Chief Ron Selph objected to a preplacement exam for their future employees.

On Wednesday, Assistant City Attorney Sue agreement cannot be reached, the recommendation will be made by the senior alderman from that ward.

The seven-member body will be under strict guidelines, among them no member can be an employee of the city nor have an immediate family member who is, can't hold or be a candidate of the appropriate department head following a personal interview.

One member will be appointed from each ward based on the joint recommendation of the three aldermen of that ward. If a joint date for any elected or appointed position, and several other criteria.

Second Ward Alderman Virgil Kambiaran, chairman of the ad hoc committee to look at hiring practices, said the mayor will be doing the hiring and the commission is only a "board of advisers."

An investigation showed that cast iron pipes carrying steam to and from the heating plant boiler were corroded to the point that they had developed holes, allowing the steam to escape.

County Board member William "Skip" Kruseich, D-Edwardsville, who inspected the employees at the home began to notice moisture damage to floors and walls.

The portion of the home where the leakage had occurred — causing floors to warp and the plaster to crumble — dates from 1960s.

Wall damage at the home has occurred from warm, moist air climbing the space between walls and attacking the plaster.

Major Von Deen Cruse appointed a committee consisting of one person himself — can't know everything there is to know about the variety of jobs in city government.

At the previous City Council meeting, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney said having a board appointed by the aldermen might be a dangerous precedent and questioned whether other boards now appointed by the mayor, such as Fire and Police Commissioners, the Plan Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals, might also be legally appointed by a board.

"If you want to depoliticize hiring, having the aldermen appoint a board is the last way to do it," he said.

Partney earlier had requested Goldenberg research the matter. But Tuesday, Goldenberg said the Personnel Commission would be created by the city acting as a home rule municipality and, while the old boards are mandated, Illinois statute, a Personnel Commission is not.

Thus, he said, the City Council could set the rules for appointing the Personnel Commission, but not for those boards whose creation and rules are determined by state law.

When asked, Goldenberg said the recent ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court regarding patronage would have no effect on the proposed personnel commission.

Partney said he believed the idea behind the Personnel Commission was a good one.

Repairs costs rise at county sheltered care home

By John Milazzo

Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Estimated costs for repairs at the Madison County Sheltered Care Home have increased almost $100,000 in a three-month period.

The Madison County Board recently approved a package of resolutions aimed at replacing the home's heating system and repairing damage created over the past winter by water vapor leaking from an old steam heat system in the building.

The cost for correcting the problems is now estimated to go as high as $170,500, compared with a "high side" estimate of $75,000 made when the problems first came to the attention of the county board.

The problems with the old system surfaced in February when pipes in March, estimated that they had been installed prior to 1900.

The portion of the home where the leakage had occurred — causing floors to warp and the plaster to crumble — dates from 1960s.

Wall damage at the home has occurred from warm, moist air climbing the space between walls and attacking the plaster.

Kruseich said.

Some buildings committee members in March expressed concern over the need to look outside the home's budget for the repairs.

Committee members were told the money was not in the home's budget despite a 2.5-cent county property tax approved by referendum in 1988 for the sheltered care home.

Champion retires from parks

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

He replaced Wake Barber, who resigned in March 1989.

GRANITE CITY — Conrad "Babe" Champion retired Friday as park supervisor for the Granite City Park District after only one year.

His replacement, Ray Hoffman, who formerly worked at Jenson-Wright, officially starts his duties Monday, but Champion spent Friday going over the job with Hoffman.

Champion, 57, a longtime teacher and coach at Granite City High School, said that when he took the job he had planned to keep it for two years, but found that the 60-hour weeks it entailed were more than he had expected.

Like the old coach and player he is, Champion said he had taken the post a "designated hitting" — i.e., an interim basis.

Although he said he was in good health, Champion said Friday he resigned because the job involved "a lot of stress. I felt I might be carried out and I wanted to walk out."

Champion said he had some projects he wanted to do around the house and he said he planned to continue officiating college football games and might get back into baseball scouting — a longtime side gig that he had to give up to accommodate his job with the Park

District.

He also hopes to have more time to watch his sons, Keith and Kirk, pursue their minor league baseball coaching careers. Keith manages the St. Louis Cardinals' A League Springfield Cardinals, and Kirk is a pitching coach with the Chicago White Sox's A League South Bend White Sox.

Hoffman, 56, recently retired from Jenson-Wright, where his most recent job was as supervisor of quality control. Parks Director Steve Kessel noted that Hoffman has been active in park programs for a number of years and was instrumental in the formation of the Granite City Umpires Association.

Hoffman did all the scheduling of umpires for the Park District for the last two years, Kessel said.

We can be very thankful to God that He has made Christ the foundation of our faith. There is none other name given under Heaven, whereby men must be saved, but the name of Jesus Christ. Said the Lord, "In this way, you shall triumph and the life, and no man can come to the Father but by me."

There has been an army which continues to do the work of God. Their labors for God have changed the world. We honor them, acknowledge them, and will build monuments to them. This is good, it is proper. However, let us not forget that all our heroes of faith have been won over to found the church by Jesus Christ. All great men of faith owe their greatness to their Savior and Lord.

The Apostle said, "We preach Christ crucified."

Heroes are made, not born

Clarence Rest of Granite City had no idea he would be considered a hero last Sunday afternoon when he risked life and limb to pull Gerald Ishum from a burning building in the downtown area. Most heroes don't.

You see, true heroes are those who do what they have to do when called upon. They don't plan their actions. They don't seek the limelight. They quietly go about their lives, each day being much like the last.

But on Sunday, Rest's life took on new meaning when he was driving down 19th Street and saw an apartment building on fire at the Delmar intersection. Upon seeing Ishum trying to get down from a second-floor window, Rest did what nobody else dared to do — climbed street sign, jumped onto an awning and crawled over to the window. He grabbed Ishum by the arm and lowered him to the ground.

Ishum was unconscious, indicating that if he would have stayed on the second floor much longer, he might not have been alive today, which he very much is.

This town is full of heroes who, when given a chance, prove what kind of mettle they're made of. Few ever get the chance, but if they do, we hope they are as good at heart as Clarence Rest.

An 'A' for cooperative ed

School districts are a bit competitive, don't let anyone tell you different. Each one tries to outdo his neighbor in appeal to students, parents and peers.

So it is especially heartwarming to see a public school and a parochial school in one city pitch in to help a public school in another city in the manner that occurred recently in Granite City and Madison.

Inspired by a newspaper plea from the principal of Blair School in Madison District 12, two other schools pitched in to help Blair win a computer in Schnucks' Apples for Students program. In the program, Schnucks gave Apple computer equipment to schools in exchange for collected register receipts. The more receipts, the more equipment.

Schnucks had set a June 4 deadline for receipts, but about one month before Blair had collected only $69,000 — well short of the $125,000 in receipts required to get an Apple IIe.

That's where Lake School and Holy Family School in Granite City came in. Thanks to a push by Lake School teacher Casey Krakowicki, many parties kicked in. Lake donated $17,000 and Holy Family $10,000 in receipts to Blair.

Both schools could have saved their receipts to receive additional equipment, but they chose not to. They were willing to share the gift of education with a neighbor. And that, to us, is what education is really all about.

A gambling afterthought

No one can blame Venice for wanting to bolster its economy through riverboat gambling. In fact, we've said that if regulated correctly, gambling can be a trouble-free, profitable venture.

But Venice seems a day late and a dollar short in comparison to developments in nearby Saugee, Alton and East St. Louis. Those communities have long since passed the talking stage and decided to whom they would give a gambling permit, if the state gaming board so decides. Venice on the other hand has had only the most preliminary discussions with candidates, and the gambling act is already five months old.

If the community is really serious about beating the competition, it better get on the gambling stick.

With so many bureaucrats why waste time in yard?

Between fixing the lawn, weeding, getting more gas and cutting weeds, I spend half my free time on yard work. So, I'm looking with pleasure at Sunday's new state law banning grass clippings from landfills.

You don't need to rake that grass they say. Leave it on the lawn.

That's my kind of talk. After all, the less work in the yard, the quicker this potato can get back to the ground.

But doesn't this new program go against the grain? Haven't we been told for years how bad it is for yards to be "choked" with dead grass? Haven't I personally raked 16,000 bags of grass since the age of 12 just because it was the right thing to do?

Yes, but our landfills are out of room, and we needed an over-size bin to hold all the grass, but in America could we find such a simple solution: Leave the grass where it came from.

Actually, while it's been a pain to watch in one respect, it's been a fun to see bureaucrats struggle with the throes of more bureaucracy.

And if all this grass clipping business isn't bureaucracy, what is it? As stated in the law, people are prohibited from knowing.

But doesn't this new program suppose the powers-that-be really don't contrive to come up with a solution to a situation as leaving dead grass on the lawn. There really is supposed to be something to that dead-grass-fertilizing-the-soil-business.

Still, it's been fun watching public officials thrash about for the last few months as they try to figure out how to best conform to the state mandate. Kind of like a box turtle on its back.

Where does the grass go? What about limbs? Who will handle the leaves? And if you can't burn them anymore, what can.

you do with them?

All excellent questions. Some towns, like nearby Edwardsville, have actively tried to answer them. In fact, Edwardsville will begin its own composting program when the July 1 law goes into effect.

Other towns, like Granite City, remind me that box turtle I mentioned. That turtle will stay on the back until someone comes along and sets it back on its feet. Or until a Mercedes comes along and ... you get the picture.

Actually, while it's been a pain to watch in one respect, it's been a fun to see bureaucrats struggle with the throes of more bureaucracy.

In the meantime though, the clock is about to strike midnight, and, unlike me, the guy who doesn't want to leave his clipping on the lawn is going to have to find someone else to pitch them.

Probably somebody else's lawn.

Justice as county sees it

To the editor:

I recently read the article in the Journal about the Henkhausens. I was outraged to put it mildly. True justice in Madison County does not exist, they make a joke of it. I have a friend who shot someone in the side of the head in Madison County. This person was hardly injured. He got 49 years in prison for it.

These two Henkhausens, who beat someone savagely and stabbed him for good measure, got only 10 years in prison. Personally, I'd rather be shot in the side than beat violently and stabbed. It seems there's a slight difference between 49 years in prison, and 2½ years prison.

The whole thing is a slap in the face to true American justice.

And wasn't there another Madison County official who got out of a driving driving charge? Obviously, there are two kinds of justice in Madison County, and then there's the rest of the United States.

rest of Madison County, if you are someone important, or you know someone, or you have money, then you get justice. If you don't, like that judge said in the Journal article, bring your toothbrush, you're going to jail.

Please, people of Madison County, don't let the so-called county officials, politicians or any other official you longer. They do what they want to do.

No matter if it is legal or not, do any one of you out there honestly think if you would have beat that kid and stabbed him you would not have to go to prison. Get real and open your eyes, they would send you down the river with the utmost haste.

It's a shame our Madison County elected officials are embarrassing us with their version of truth, justice and the American way. Doesn't truth, justice, and decency exist anywhere? I'm beginning to wonder.

Having these so-called trials in St. Clair County proves every word in this letter.

I believe you should print this letter because the people of Madison County have a right to be heard from the last side of the tracks for a change.

It's tough on divorced dads

To the editor:

I would like to write a letter to all divorced fathers.

You hear all the time how they are cracking down on fathers for not paying child support. What you don't hear is how the fathers feel or how some ex-wives use the children as tools for revenge to get at the father.

These are the same children who at one time were one happy family, and now are the product of a one-parent household dependent on that parent for the truth. They don't always hear it.

The mother will tell the father he is no good, doesn't love the child, has no life, and they're in the way. I could go on, but you get the idea.

Parents have a dream of raising good responsible adults. But (sometimes) children become a product of a vengeful parent. Such a child will know no respectability, have no ambition, and blame everything wrong in his or her life on the father that couldn't be there.

A father does not divorce his children. He divorces the wife. There are too many fathers out there losing their battles because of this.

If you have recently been divorced, please watch your actions. It's hard to tell how you feel. At the same time, it's too late. Some feelings can't be changed and once you've turned your back on a parent, it may be too late to change your mind.

Parents can make mistakes, but divorced parents can't afford to. It may come back to haunt you one day.

Break up cable monopoly

To the editor:

You know they broke up Ma Bell because they said they had a monopoly. Well, what about this Cencom Cable? If it's not a monopoly, what is?

Our "cable" goes out constantly. This morning at 6 a.m. I decided to turn my TV to hear the news and the weather; while I was doing this, the cable was out.

Right now it's 8:10 p.m., and I was watching "Roseanne" and guess what? My cable is out again! That's twice in one day, and I don't know if it's went out any during the day while I was at work.

They don't take anything off your bill for the times you go with your cable out. We pay full price no matter how many times we actually have no TV.

Why can't we get another cable company in here to give Cencom some competition?

It would be nice to have competition they don't seem to care if they give their customers good service or not.

Just like we have a choice on what phone company we wish to use, I think we also deserve the same choice when it comes to cable TV.

I hope you print this letter. I'm sure there are hundreds of other cable users that feel the same as I do, totally disgusted, but with no alternatives if we wish to view cable.

'Homebound' isn't the end

To the editor:

I may be housebound almost, but I can still use a telephone and I can still use a sewing machine and write letters to people who are in nursing homes.

Being housebound isn't half as bad as people make it out to be. Enjoy the Journal and the Press-Record immensely.

'Unseen' aren't worthless

To the editor:

A letter printed recently said that if all those who walk the street in protest of abortion would put their energy into making "the children who are here" happy and cared for, then the world would be a better place. The unborn children being killed are here, or there would be no one to be born. Simply because they aren't seen or held doesn't make them worthless. Abortion takes an existing life, it doesn't erase the unborn child or the pregnancy.

People that feel abortion gets too much attention in politics are forgetting it's a life and death issue. When life in the womb is not valued, life outside the womb is also lost value. How sad we seem to have more concern for animals than plants, the for human beings. One person judging whether or not another person's life should continue is a dangerous trend. The killing of "unwanted" preborn children opens the door to the killing of other "unwanted" members of society, euthanasia.

If we care about the future, let's make sure we all have the right to life regardless of age, health, or dependency. Everyday of life is worth protecting.

Fly flag every hour of day

The following is reprinted from the News of the Detrayer Escort Sailors Association

To the editor:

At dawn's early light the USA flag proudly waves, conveying its message of democracy to the world. And particularly on Flag Day, it becomes a lasting one for all who understand American democracy.

The Continental Congress, barely afloat in the sea of troubles, found little time for formal, if vague design for the American Flag. Just how this standard came into existence is lost in history.

Observers the world over have noted that the Americans are flag conscious, displaying sensitivity and reverence toward their country's colors. It is intriguing. Flags are only cloth and color. How are they so meaningful to us?

There is no ready explanation. But flags do symbolize nation's achievements, traditions, ideals.

Old Glory represents veterans, mechanics, miners, drivers, country lawyers, housewives, store clerks, students, artists and non-artistic people with whom man can identify.

This country provides food for thought at nightfall as the Stars and Stripes flutter in the breeze, basking in the warm glow of illumination. What better way to honor America with a 24-hour display starting with Flag Day, June 14.

The 21-day salute to our country, climaxing on Independence Day, July 4, was initiated as the Honor American program of the American Historic Escort Sailors Association. Congress recognized it with legislation setting aside the 21-day period for "public" gatherings and activities at which citizens can celebrate the honor of the country in an appropriate manner."

Presidential Proclamations or Congressional actions have permitted Old Glory to fly 24 hours a day, weather permitting, at specific points. Among these are the House, the U.S. Capitol, the Washington Monument, Fort McHenry in Baltimore, Flag House, the Marine Corps Memorial in Arlington, Va., and Green Lexington.

This does not restrict other organizations or individuals from following such a practice, provided the flag is properly illuminated at night.

There are many places in the United States where the flag flies day and night, even without official sanction, but there should be more. Additional groups, such as DESA Chapters and individuals, should consider having the influential presence of a 24-hour USA Flag in their community as a constant reminder of our country's traditions and hopes.

No more mixing grass and trash Yard waste law goes into effect July 1

By Sam Hananel

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — As July 1 approaches, waste haulers and landfills as well as area residents, are preparing to comply with the new state law that requires separation of yard waste from other trash.

Mike McMurtrey, general manager of Waste Management's Metro East district said it may be difficult for residents and haulers alike to get accustomed to the new system of arranging yard waste hauling of independent of trash collection. Waste Management is sending our fliers to all its customers informing them of prices and options.

While Granite City has decided to let residents handle yard waste themselves, Madison superintendent of streets Rob Robbins said his city will continue to pick up yard waste as well as other trash. And, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins, the city will provide free biodegradable bags for residents' yard waste until prices for the bags are set.

Both Noland and Robbins have said that haulers are expected to in the next few days before the July 1 deadline.

Granite City residents can choose from a number of companies to collect their yard waste, each offering different prices and packages. Waste Management will charge a $36 annual fee to haul up to two containers of yard waste each week. Residents may not arrange for less than a year-long contract.

Ken Kirk, division manager for Laidlaw Waste Systems based in Canfield, said his company will primarily service Granite City.

At this point in time we've opted not to go into Granite City itself," he said, adding that the company is carrying a full load already. So, Mr. McMurtrey said, the company sent out letters to all its customers explaining the new yard waste separation laws and how to handle them.

If there are more than two containers, residents can purchase special stickers from Waste Management that cost 50 cents each. "I think ours is the cheapest system," he said, McMurtrey said. But he added that residents are required to use 32-gallon paper bags, which will be sold at area stores.

Laidlaw Waste Systems, which provides yard waste collection in Granite City, will offer yard waste hauling at $1.25 per 30-gallon container and 85 cents per container for senior citizens over 65. As with Waste Management collection, disposable containers must be made of paper.

For unincorporated areas, prices are $2.50 per month and $1 per container. Each container must have a sticker which can be purchased through the company.

Waste Management covers trash collection for most other unincorporated areas around Granite City, Pontiac Beach, Mitchell and other local areas.

Individuals and landfill owners or operators who violate the law can be assessed fines, said Mike Nechvatal, manager of the solid waste management for IEPA.

The agency's goal is to get compliance with the law without fines, but in theory, Nechvatal said, violators can be fined up to $10,000 plus $1,000 per day.

Some residents aren't happy

Local residents have mixed reactions to the new yard-waste law, Helen Slay, a Granite City resident, said she and her husband would leave grass clippings on the lawn until they decided which company to hire.

"I think it's going to be confusing," she said. "If the city can do it, it would be a lot easier."

Leon Richardson, also of Granite City, said he would not need to pay for yard waste removal.

"I don't worry about my yard waste. I just mow my yard and let the grass lay," he said.

But the new system drew a scathing response from Granite City resident James Thorsenberger. "What do you pay taxes and everything for?" he asked. "Someone is going to have to come up with a better solution to some of this now."

The Granite City Street Department will still pick up tree limbs and discarded shrubbery as it has in the past, but it will not still do that in the summer months because of the need of manpower for other types of work. The department annually suspends the limb pickup service during the summer period.

McMurtrey said his haulers will bring yard waste to one of two locations, either the Chain of Rocks Landfill or the Milam Landfill. Each are very near completion of composting facilities and expect to begin composting by the July 1 deadline.

Greg Mathes, manager of the Chain of Rocks Landfill on Chouteau Island near Mitchell, said there is a $5 dumping fee per cubic yard of waste and a $25 monthly cost for a permit. But he recommends that residents compost their leaves and grass clippings themselves by just leaving it on the lawn after cutting.

A new service that will handle yard waste is K's Grass Disposal Service, which advertises a fee of $6.50 per month for weekly pick-up. K's owner Ken Richter said he monthly cuts about a six-bag limit each week with a $1 charge for each additional bag.

James Nold, general manager of the Milam Landfill in St. Clair

County, outlined the basic process of composting when trucks arrive with yard waste. The loads are dumped in a staging area, then moved into a tub grinder where all material is shredded to pieces one-quarter to one-half inch diameter.

The ground up material is then pressed and formed into three foot by six foot blocks called windrows. The windrows are periodically watered, rotated and maintained at certain ideal temperatures for approximately one month.

When workers have determined that the windrows have decomposed sufficiently, the formation yard waste is used as vegetation to cover garbage or is sold as garden fertilizer.

Mathes described a similar procedure at the composting facility at Chain of Rocks Landfill. "I think there was a pilot program at Waste Management facilities in Rochester, N.Y., and in Chicago.

The Madison Junior Service Club held its final meeting for the summer months on June 12, consisting of a family cookout at Wilson Park.

President Charlene Voloski-Turley called the meeting to order to discuss plans for the new club year.

A drawing was won by Billie Bostwick. Kevin Turley served as chef for the cookout.

Attending were: Jackie and Danielle Snell; Carla Voloski-Delyo; Rhonda; Mary Marie; Teresa; Rhoda; Billie Bostwick; Barbara; and Adam Vrabec; Cindy Dennis and Matthew Hogan; Mary Anna and Karen Kaminski; Christine and Dorothy Hatfield; Carol Smith; Robert Crawford; Dennis Dillon; Charlene Voloski-Turley; Kevin and Kristopher Turley.

The club will next meet on Sept. 11. The hostesses will be Jackie Snell and Charlene Voloski-Turley.

mixing that waste with other material intended for landfills, the law states.

Landfill owners and operators can only accept yard waste for disposal if it has been sorted from other waste for composting, and only then with a permit from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for composting.

Individuals and landfill owners or operators who violate the law can be assessed fines, said Mike Nechvatal, manager of the solid waste management for IEPA.

The agency's goal is to get compliance with the law without fines, but in theory, Nechvatal said, violators can be fined up to $10,000 plus $1,000 per day.

At July 1, doing yard work may take longer than ever for Illinois residents.

That's when Illinois Senate Bill 1599 becomes law and applies to Illinois' Residential Protection Act to prohibit yard waste from being sent to or accepted by landfills, unless the landfills have separate composting facilities.

Yard waste includes grass clippings, leaves and other garden debris.

The law speaks to residents and landfill owners and operators.

People are prohibited from knowingly sending yard waste or

Triplets move into 1st place with win

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — A little on-the-job training paid off for the Triplets on Tuesday.

After O'Fallon's Jay Breckel struck out the last two batters in a trip through the lineup, Post 113 made the proper adjustments and hammered out a 4-2 win in District 22 play. The Triplets took the sole lead in first place in the North Division with a 6-4 record while O'Fallon fell to 8-2 in the South Division.

It was a big win over one of the league's best teams and best pitchers, similar to the 3-1 win over the Free and Edwardsville last week. Breckel was 9-0 with a 1.40 ERA at Mater Dei High School this spring and finished with nine strikeouts Tuesday.

"We acted like we had never seen a curve ball the first time through the lineup," said Triplets manager Ralph Burnett. "But after we realized we couldn't pitch around it and try to pull it, we hit him pretty good. That made him throw his fastball more often, too."

Joe Wallace broke up Breckel's perfect game with two-out doubles in the center in the fourth, then Brian Hanchayville piled to right-center for a 1-1 tie. O'Fallon had scored on an RBI single by Wesley Brooks off Rich Schardan (2-1) in the third, then two errors and a sacrifice fly by Tony Fornari forced a 2-2 tie in the top of the fifth.

"Denny Partney is a fine hit, but we thought it was time for him to sit for a game," Burnett said of inserting Nordstrom at first base. "I love the way he batted. He was hard and he slid hard into third base to knock the ball loose on the next play."

Nordstrom had been trying to bunt but switched to trying to hit the big hit. Hodges also went the other way in the sixth with a triple over Brooks' head in right to drive in Schardan, who had singled. Schardan came through with a solid effort in the mound, striking out the cleanup hitter — to end the game with a man at third.

"I think it's really going to be a good thing for us. And we're getting some great help. Guys

Tournament starts Saturday

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY The Post 113 only means baseball as much as anything. And there will be baseball from morning until night this weekend at Valley Field.

Actually, if the rains stay away, the baseball will be over before the Fourth. But from Saturday through Tuesday it will be non-stop action as Post 113 serves as one of four hosts of the Tournament of Champions, a 20-team American Legion tournament.

The Triplets are grouped with Evansville (Ind.), Kirkwood (Mo.), Fairfield (Ia.) and Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.). The first flight plays each other round robin in Saturday through Monday.

The winners of each of the four flights will gather in Granite City on Wednesday, the second and third flights. Games will also be played in Sault Ste. Marie and Trenton. Each host team plays all its flights games at its home field.

"When it's over, we're going to have it," said Post 113 manager Ralph Burnett. "We'll have our own barbecue and soda and the picnic tables will be set up. We'll have the sound system ready to go. The Legion will be there and Jamie Hogan will be operating that when they're not playing in their tournament (the Miners are at Valmeyer)."

"I think Palatine (Flight B), Evansville (Flight A) and Mt. Prospect (Flight D) might be the best teams coming in," said like Jerry McKeegan, Kelly Hodges, Nate Bailey and Harry Ellis (of Post 113) are always out here getting things ready. I sometimes worry if we're going to have everything ready, but we'll get it done."

Wirtz "Palatine beat Edwardsville last year, state last year. Evansville travels all over the country and does well. Manchester might be the best team coming in from St. Louis."

"I'm not sure about the teams from the league. It takes a lot of pitching depth to win a tournament like this. But Granite City has shown it can beat good teams."

"I guess I'm an optimist, but I really think we'll be playing in the finals," said Burnett. "I believe the people are going to enjoy what they're here for."

Burnett said Brian Harshany would pitch tonight in Marissa and Chris Hill would start Friday in East St. Louis. Then Rich Schardan will open the tournament involving mostly league teams.

"We've been wanting to get more outside activity," Wirtz said. "And Granite City was our choice to host the finals. We were talking with how they held the playoffs last year (and will again this year)."

Wirtz will receive each flight champion will receive a plaque and there will be trophies for the top four teams on Tuesday, with individual plaques going to the players and coaches of the winning teams.

"I think Palatine (Flight B), Evansville (Flight A) and Mt. Prospect (Flight D) might be the best teams coming in," said we've had a lot of question marks. (Mark) Begando is capable of throwing strikes and he's given us some good outings this year. But we need more consistency from him, and Scotty LeVault is working on a changeup to make him a little more effective."

Begando (2.33 ERA) and Mark Hendrickson (2.33) have both won three games while Hendrickson is 3-0 with a 2.83 ERA. LeVault is 1-2 with a 4.44 ERA. Granite City will enter the tournament as one of the favorites.

"You could call it a Cinderella tournament," said Patton. "It's not been a good year for anything to happen when you play three games in two days. I've been associated with this tournament for 14 years and I've seen a lot of strange things occur. You just need to take advantage of your chances going in," said DePew. "We'll look at East Alton (at 11:30 a.m.) on Saturday, and they always get pumped up to play down there. Winning that first game will get you rolling."

Hendrickson will likely match pitches with Brian "Pick" Clawson of East Alton, last year's tournament MVP, in the opener. Championship and consolation semifinals will follow, then the tournament will wrap up on Wednesday the Fourth.

Dooley joins Crews Realty

GRANITE CITY — Rhonda Dooley has joined Crews Realty-Better Homes and Gardens, owned by George Crews and his wife, Crews. Dooley has its office at 2002 Nauvoo Road.

Dooley is a native of Granite City and resides here with her husband, Garry, and their son, Chad.

She is a 12-year member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority and serves on the advisory board of Prevention Services.

A.O. Smith declares dividend

MILWAUKEE — Directors of A.O. Smith Corporation declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of $20 per share of common stock (Class A and B) payable August 15 to shareholders of record July 31.

They also declared a dividend of $53125 per share of convertible exchangeable preferred stock.

Businessman at White House

Glenn Lindsay of L.E. Lindsay Construction Co., Granite City, was among 100 construction leaders who were greeted by President George Bush at the White House.

Lindsay was attending the Construction Leadership Conference as vice president of the Southern Illinois Builders Association. Chapter and national officers of the Association of General Contractors held two days of intensive discussions and strategy sessions on meeting the challenges facing the construction industry.

They were also addressed by Congressional leaders, including Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., and Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., House minority leader.

Hospitals are heard in Springfield

One thousand and five hundred hospital representatives from around the state, including 100 from St. Elizabeth Medical Center, rallied in Springfield on Hospital Day to voice their concerns about issues critical to the survival of health care in Illinois. The single greatest concern on Illinois' agenda these days is inadequate Medicaid funding, according to the Illinois Hospital Association. Government funding — Medicare and Medicaid — makes up more than 50 percent of total hospital revenues.

At SEMC, the percentage is higher. "Sixty-two percent of our revenue is government funded," said Dennis Gutz, vice president of finance at the medical center.

According to Kenneth C. Robbins, president of the Illinois Hospital Association, Medicaid payments are not only low, they are delayed. "There would be no crisis if hospitals were reimbursed what it costs them to care for a Medicaid or Medicare patient and if hundreds of thousands of Illinoisans who qualify have not health insurance enjoyed the protection of some essential health benefits," Robbins said.

The rally in Springfield was meant to show legislators that people care about the future of health care in Illinois. Representatives included CEOs, hospital staffers and board members, nursing supervisors, nuns, volunteers and auxiliaries.

The lobbyists filled the entire first floor of the capitol building, which is situated across the street from the State Capitol building. Some carried posters and paraded around the floor before settling down for a chance to listen to a series of messages.

Subsequent to the rally many of those in attendance met with their legislators.

"We are blessed with two very supportive legislators — Sen. Sam Kandaline and Rep. Sam Wolf," said Ted Ellerman, president of SEMC.

This year's Illinois Hospital Association message is "REACH OUT." It endorses the IHA legislation that will provide hospitals with added resources to better serve their communities. The REACH (Reasonable Enhanced Access to Community Hospitals) legislation offers immediate, important changes in Illinois' Medicaid programs.

"REACH is founded on the simple premise that Medicaid patients are not only not hazardous to the health of our desperately-needed community hospitals," Robbins said.

Senate President Philip Rock introduced the REACH initiative to the Illinois Assembly. It contains four proposals. Specific components of the REACH legislation would provide for:

• An outpatient indigent volume adjustment for outpatient services furnished by hospitals to Medicaid patients;

• Additional payments for inpatient obstetrical services rendered to Medicaid patients by hospitals located outside of specific designated Illinois Department of Public Health perinatal centers; and to hospitals which treat a large number of Medicaid patients;

• Increased hospital emergency room payments for treating Medicaid patients and technical adjustments for specific procedures administered to Medicaid patients in an emergency room; and;

• Requirements for the Department of Public Aid to make adjustment payments for certain impairments at specific trauma center hospitals statewide.

"All of the bills introduced by IHA during the legislative session will provide an environment for hospitals to 'reach out' to the communities they serve to provide quality, accessible health care services while reducing medical costs and being less restricted by duplicative, costly and unnecessary regulation," Robbins said.

In addition to REACH, there were several other bills introduced by the IHA this session. In all, there were 13 bills affirmatively proposed by the IHA this year. Some required additional spending; others did not.

Critical-care staff members receive ACLS certification

Lisa James, RN, and Jae Lynn Kuberski, RN, BSN, associates in the Critical Care Unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, have passed the American Cardiac Life Support test sponsored by the American Heart Association. Both are Granite City residents.

Kuberski previously worked in another care unit at SEMC and has spent the last year and a half in CCU.

James was a unit secretary at SEMC for eight years before becoming a registered nurse in 1987.

According to James, the two-day training and life-support test covered code management, choking, drowning and which intravenous drugs to give during a cardiac arrest.

"The test is a very good way for the nurses to experience professional growth and enhance their performance in code situations," said Kathy Gauen, supervisor of the SEMC Critical Care Unit.

"The certification is primarily for code situations. But it will also enhance patient care every day," James said.

The ACLS is sponsored by the American Heart Association and is offered to nurses, paramedics and others involved in lifesaving.
